4:45-5:15  End of Course Questions and Evaluation
DEAR PARTICIPANTS,

The Division of Respiratory Medicine has teamed up to bring you a comprehensive look at the latest advances in the evaluation and management of children with sleep disorders. We will highlight these advances and share a collaborative management approach to promote best outcomes for these children.

I would like to thank the members of our planning committee who have worked diligently to put this program together to offer you an educational event with multiple learning formats from lectures to workshops. As always, we are dedicated to delivering a thought provoking stimulating program with a team of world renowned speakers.

I look forward to meeting you all.

Indra Narang, MD

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Discuss presentation, diagnosis and management of all types of respiratory related sleep disorders in healthy children and children with underlying co-morbidity. This will include disorders such as obstructive sleep apnea and central sleep apnea.

2. Become familiar with the surgical and non-surgical management of respiratory related sleep disorders.

3. Develop a framework for the recognition and management of non-respiratory related sleep disorders in children.

4. Understand evidence-based information on the current concepts of paediatric sleep disorders.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Family physicians, paediatricians, sleep specialists, allied health professionals including nurse practitioners, respiratory therapists and sleep technologists.

FACULTY DISCLOSURE

Faculty are expected to disclose any economic or other personal interests that create, or may be perceived as creating a conflict related to the material discussed.
